Champions Take Final Game of Series and Get Five Break in Four Contests

Philadelphia Trounces Cleveland

Washington and Boston Also Win

The Detroit left this city yesterday, taking with them the last of the four games with the American League, an even break on the series. Beating the Highlanders advanced the champions from fourth place to third. They switched with the New Yorks. The Athletics won a game just when it would do the most good. At present they and the Cleveland are at the top of the heap and every game from the Naps helps the Athletics just so much. The Sports Boys tripped up the St. Louis Browns, who have lost about as many games as it is possible to lose and still have a standing in the percentage table. The Washingtons defeated the Little Alexanders, otherwise the Chicago White Sox. The results:

DETROIT, N. Y. NEW YORK, N. Y.

Quinn took a chance at the wrong time in the seventh inning of the Detroit-Highlanders game yesterday. With two of the Wolverine tigers (biological oddity), on the bases, after he finished his usual naturally, Quinn passed W. S. Crawford and let J. Delehanty up. Delehanty deceived Quinn more than Quinn deceived him, smearing a single through the box that scored two runs. These runs broke a 3-1 tie and gave the game to the Michiganans. It was the first time in the present series, the third of the four to be won by a 3-2 score. The clubs broke even on the series.

Stroud, who hasn't a big league reputation yet, held the Highlanders to four hits. They attempted two of these hits and a base on balls in one inning and got no runs. Later another error in the field, which cost the other run. Two of the Highlanders' four hits were triples, heavy smashes, Hemphill and Newman. The latter's whiff was saved from being a home run by the other tigers.

Cobb, who was expected to be a big factor in the series, was out of the game for the first time in the series. He was hit on the head by a ball in the first inning and was unable to play.

Delehanty was struck in the left arm by one of Quinn's curves and sank to the ground. He was up in the first inning, but Morarty fouled out to Austin to end the inning.

Two Highlanders popped and one fanned in the first, in consequence of this. There were three fancy plays in the Detroit-Philadelphia game yesterday. One was a double play, another a sacrifice fly, and the third a sacrifice bunt.

Mathewson Bumped From the Mount, and by St. Louis—Brooklyn Wins Anyway

It was had enough to see it happen to Matty, but to have St. Louis do it is inexpressible. Eight runs in one inning of Big Six!

The full horror of Friday's 18th is now known to the athletic editor. A good title for his next book would be "Drama in the Stand." The score was 13 to 4 eventually for Bresnahan's Cardinals. The Brooklyn redeemed the honor of our city in part by eating up the Cincinnati and the Philadelphia did as much for the Pittsburgh. The giants pulled the strings in East River. The Phillies gained a little by the reverses of the two teams ahead of them in the first division. The results:

FINAL ACTION ON FOOTBALL

COMMITTEE DECIDES ON THE CHANGES FOR NEXT FALL

Forward Pass Still Goes Over Limit. With Restriction of Distance and Measures With a View to Protecting the Receiver—Other Changes in Code.

With a meeting at the Hotel Cumberland in this city yesterday the intercollegiate football committee practically decided the question of overhauling the playing rules and next fall the game will differ greatly from what it has been. The meeting yesterday was the fourth this year and wording and codifying of the new rules is about all that remains to be done except the actual tryout of the revised rules next fall. The forward pass has been practically restricted to behind the line of scrimmage, as several members of the rules committee hoped it would be. It was the forward pass which provoked most of the winter's discussion, whether to keep it, abolish it or restrict it, and the final will of a majority of the rules makers is that the pass be retained, but with a view to restricting it to its use and measures intended to protect the catcher of the pass. On most of the new rules, some of which were adopted at previous meetings, the committee was pretty well agreed, but it is said that there was far from a unanimous vote in favor of keeping the forward pass as it has been. It is said that football next fall will be very much like outdoor basketball, said one of the members of the rules committee in discussing the forward pass as adopted. "I believe that injuries will be greatly decreased by the new rules as a whole, but with the forward pass operating as it is likely to next fall the game will be mostly forward passing, and with so much bickering regarding legality of passes between players and officials it will become tiresome."

However, it is evident that a majority of the committee if some do think the particular rule which retains the pass tends to help football as a spectacle than to hurt it. Other suggestions which those fathering the change would have made a better game were put before the committee yesterday, and the football experts who are considered levelheaded the support was not strong enough for them to be accepted by the majority. Harvard is said to have been one of the strongest advocates of keeping the forward pass. A majority of the committee believe the changes adopted from one to the other in the matter of accidents, serious and otherwise, to participants. The complete list of changes in the playing rules, some adopted before yesterday's meeting, is as follows:

The game shall consist of four periods of fifteen minutes each. Adopted previously.

Seven men on the line of scrimmage. Adopted previously.

Ten yards to be gained in three downs. This was the rule as it had been, but it wasn't decided until yesterday that there should be no change in the distance to be gained.

Removal of the five yard lateral restriction on the first man receiving the ball from the snapper back. Adopted previously.

No pushing or pulling of the runner and no interfering interference. Adopted previously.

The forward pass may cross the line of scrimmage, but the ball must be in the hands of the passer at the time the pass is made, and when the catch is made more than twenty yards in advance of the spot where the ball is put in play. In short, the forward pass is to be in length and the long pass is no longer permissible.

Only one man on the line of scrimmage and the line must be in the hands of the passer at the time the pass is made, and a back to be eligible must be one yard back from the line of scrimmage when the ball is put in play.

On a first and second down in case of an illegal catch, the ball shall be put in play at the spot where the pass was made. The play to count as a down and the runner shall be allowed to remain on the field. On third down the ball shall be put in play at the spot where the pass was made.

Half back shall be switched from the forward line to the back line, and the prohibition of the diving tackle that punter must have at least one foot on the ground at the time he kicks the ball, and he shall be penalized for breaking this rule.

Regulation dealing with the forward pass more completely than it was as follows:

A forward pass which crosses the line of scrimmage at a point at which the back of the passer is behind the line of scrimmage is that by which the play shall be null and void. The ball shall be put in play at the spot where the pass was made.

A player on the offense who has crossed the line of scrimmage may not interfere with a defensive player on a kick until the ball shall have gone twenty yards, nor on a forward pass until it shall have been caught, or until an attempt to catch the pass.

Players on the defense behind the scrimmage line may not interfere with the runner or opponents' bodies in order to get at the man with the ball until the ball shall have advanced ten yards, or until the runner has crossed the scrimmage line. After the ball has gone beyond that line they may play as heretofore.

On a forward pass, the line of scrimmage on the forward pass shall be in any way interfere with opponents except in an actual attempt to catch the ball, nor shall a player on the offense be allowed to interfere with their opponents until opponents have gone twenty yards beyond the line of scrimmage.

No player while in the act of catching the forward pass shall be tackled, thrown, or held, or in any way interfered with, until he shall have caught the ball and taken more than one step in any direction. The referee shall be notified if there is any interference that is incidental to a bona fide attempt to catch or intercept the pass shall not count within this prohibition.

On a forward pass, the referee shall provide for any player carrying the ball who crawls after the ball has been declared dead. The referee shall be notified if there is any interference probably will be the same as for holding. A player removed from the game for any cause except a foul qualification may return to the game once.

On a forward pass, the referee shall be notified if there is any interference that is incidental to a bona fide attempt to catch or intercept the pass shall not count within this prohibition.
